

WORLD BUSINESS FOR CHURCH

WORLD MOVEMENT
GROWTH OF TENDEN-CIES
WASTE, COM-
ON CUT.

Interchurch World Movement America is an attempt by leading leaders of the various denominations of the United States and Canada to co-ordinate their efforts in men, money and method.

It is the logical outgrowth of the national movement to form alliances among themselves, each board shall preserve its and control its own personnel policy.

Under the home mission the foreign mission society, the extension society and the philanthropic and eleemosy-nary of any denomination consider their affairs independently of each other. Each surveyed its own territory, prepared a budget and worked for its own and made its own appeal to generosity for support.

It could only mean that these were more or less in competition with one another; that there was waste and duplication of work and that among them all work was neglected and some national resources were entirely overlooked. Because of their separate training, the leaders of each regarded themselves as loyal to their tasks, and regarded attempts at outside cooperation as interference.

Decide on Experiment.

Decades of such haphazard work, the leaders of one denomination decided on an experiment. They decided it would be possible for the various churches to get together for a combined effort of all the opportunities and resources of their brotherhood, to make a unified budget of men and money, and to conduct a concerted appeal for funds. It was made clear that each constituent board should have complete autonomy.

The board representatives found it possible to eliminate a great amount of organization work. They ultimately worked out a plan of campaign that was satisfactory to all. This resulted in the famous "Men and Millions Plan" of the Disciples of Christ, brought in when was then considered the staggering sum of $6,300, for a five-year program.

The success of this enterprise revolutionized the whole business of financing. The other great denominations immediately adopted it. The denominational associations have come to be known as "forward movements," and some thirty of them are in existence today. Each one united all the information in relation to enterprise within the denomination, and has reduced the business of setting and spending money to a minimum.

World-Budget Formed.

Interchurch World Movement is a plan to do interdenominational work that the forward movements done within the various communities. It means that every denom-inal budget will be made in the light of world needs instead of in the light of incomplete information. It means that contributions to denomination will not be in wasteful competition with contributions to other, because all the fellowships have worked out their program together.

The functions of the Interchurch World Movement are threefold. First, to collect, by means of world surveys, the pertinent facts on which denominational programs may be built.
Second, it sets up the practical machine of co-operation. Third, it acts as an advisory capacity whenever its services are requested.

The Movement has nothing to do with organic church union or matters of creed or doctrine. Each constituent preserves complete autonomy and is bound only so far as it is to be bound. Financial appeals made by each denomination to its constituency. Any surplus in allocated funds, over and above actual cost of administration, will be prorated among the denominations in a given financial undertaking.

An illustration of one thing the movement can do is to be found in a community of 1,600 persons which thirteen denominations have supporting separate churches missionary funds, while an adjacent territory of 50,000 persons has three churches. By seeing that missionary boards are supplied with information in such cases, the movement will make possible a wise distribution of funds.

Its first goals are to reduce unnecessary duplication and overlapping to a minimum and to bring about an efficient division of labor in unoccupied fields. The Movement is at bottom an attempt to put church business on the sound, business-like four corners on which the great commercial institutions of America are built.

AND NOW, JAKE HAMON.

Now Jake Hamon is being touted for the Presidential nominee on the Republican ticket. The press greatly influence in and out of the Hamons has garnered millions of dollars, and having the dollars for the asking.

BOY SCOUTS EAST AND WEST

"One kind act a day" creed is spreading over China

"One kind act a day" soon will startle the Dragon of China, for the Boy Scout movement is spreading among the almond-eyed youth of the Far Eastern republic. Boys of a race which, for ages, did not know how to play or to enjoy the great outdoor life, have taken eagerly to the uniform, equipment and activities which have had such an influence in developing the youth of America and of other advanced countries.

Khaki-clad youth can be seen hiking along the centuries-old roads in this mysterious land just as they do in the United States. Every close-up view of them discloses a smiling, healthier and more alert Young China than that of the lads of a generation ago.

The Boy Scout movement in China is only seven years old, but already it is in a flourishing condition. It has developed around the universities and schools established in China by the various American boards of missions of the Protestant churches. These churches are now united in the Interchurch World Movement for a greater, more far-reaching effort with the elimination of all useless duplication and over-lapping of activities.

With the growth of mission schools, wisely distributed throughout the operation of the Interchurch World Movement based on its surveys, it can be expected that Boy Scout troops will spring up in every section of China. And this widespread distribution of the activities which have appealed so to American youth are expected to have a marked effect upon the rising generation of Chinese men.
